The Florida Center for Nursing and University of West Florida announce Northwest Regional Workshop

Local nurses and community invited to share their experience

Tampa, Fla. - The Florida Center for Nursing (FCN) is conducting a statewide Community Engagement Tour. The Northwest regional workshop will take place on July 23rd, 1:00pm CT, at the University of West Florida.

The Community Engagement Tour is a series of regional workshops that allow the community to review and comment on nursing workforce data. In addition, participants have the opportunity to offer input on the needs specific to their community and recommend systemic changes, including strategies for implementation. The workshops are an opportunity for the Florida Center for Nursing, health care leaders, educators, and lawmakers to hear directly from the community about issues impacting health care in the region and across the state.

Regional workshops are open to the public and offered for both in-person and virtual attendance. Interested parties can register here: www.flcntr.org/CETNW

The FCN is committed to listening to nurses, educators, consumers, business and industry partners, lawmakers, and other health care providers about issues impacting the nursing workforce and the state of health care in Florida.
